WHO WANTS TO HELP ME?

Could you imagine being a sponsor of a helpless child? The Fiwagoh Orphanage is in great need of sponsors so that they can meet their daily expenses. In this booklet you will find the life stories of those children that do not have a sponsor. This booklet gives the situation as per 6. November 2012. On our website www.betterlifemission.org you will always find an updated list with all the children who do not have a sponsor. Here you will also find our newsletters and other information concerning the orphanage.

Link to the children: www.betterlifemission.org/html/sponsor_a_child.html

The orphanage accepts primarily children without parents or children having a mother or a father who is unable to take care of them. But they also accept a limited number of school children who for different reasons need help.

She then sought to find a refuge in her brother's home. But later he chased her away as he did not have enough support for himself and his own family. The neighbours who saw how Mary was strained and lacked basic needs referred her to the Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage. Mary was admitted at the orphanage in January 2012. food from the garbage bins. A Christian woman who is a very close neighbour to the insane mother decided to rescue Joseph whose life was headed downhill. Joseph was brought to Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage. Later Immanuel was also transferred to Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage as he was getting too old to be allowed to stay at the baby orphanage. Himself being a strong Christian man also found that his children were suffering mentally, morally and spiritually due to the demoralizing influences in his home area. This came in addition to his challenge to take care of their basic needs. Shortly before the father died, the mother was evicted by the family. She rented a small house and worked in people's homes to earn just a little food for her children. The grandmother (the mother's mother) also died of Aids in 2008. An uncle tried to provide for the mother and her children. But the relief was short as his health deteriorated. As the health of the mother was also deteriorating she was assisted by the neighbours to provide food for the children, but the children never got enough let alone a balanced diet. A close neighbour (very old widow) took Eva to stay with her to assist her in cooking the food and to look after her cattle after school hours. Eva found a refuge in this home but she has never been happy in life due to a lot of mental tortures because of her being separated from her brothers. One day one of the teachers from Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage visited the village where the mother stayed with the 2 boys. He was shocked to learn how terrible these children were suffering without food and proper clothing. In January 2012 all three siblings were brought to the orphanage. The boy was treated so badly by her till he pleaded to be allowed to go back to his grandmother. But the grandmother was old und unable to feed the 5 children from another deceased daughter, which she was already taking care of. Samuel has suffered under much depression after losing his mother and sister. He has suffered under lack of food ever since his mother died.

School children

School children are children from parents who desire that their children obtain an education based on Christian principles at the Fiwagoh Orphanage or it is children with poor parents who are unable to take care of their children or for some reason needs help.

As far as possible parents who are able to pay school fees for their children are asked to do so. Because of the financial situation in Kenya it is not possible to ask the parents to pay school fees that would fully cover the orphanage’s expenses. Therefore sponsorships for these children are lower because these sponsorships will have to cover only that part of the costs that the parents are not able to pay for.

Sponsorships for school children whose parents are totally unable to pay are the same as those for the orphans.

The school children live at the orphanage and attend the school there. In the school holidays three times a year they have the opportunity to go home and visit the family.

After getting back to their land they built a mud house and the mother began to grow some food for the survival of the family. The father went back to the market place and worked as before carrying the luggage for people. Unfortunately he was now so addicted to alcohol that he no longer brought the money home but was drinking the money up. The mother has been struggling to support the family the best she can but finally decided to bring John her eldest son to the Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage so he can get schooling and be taken good care of. The director of the orphanage has been trying to make the father understand that he is responsible to pay for his son but it has been in vain. The children were fleeing for their lives walking one month through the bush, eating leaves and dead carcasses to survive. They bound leaves around their bare feet to protect them. The brother was separated from the sisters during the flight and ended up in Uganda. Phoebe and her sister were finally picked up by UN trucks and brought to a refugee camp in northern Kenya. Here they lived for three years. Her sister finally got married to a Sudanese who lived in Kenya. They took Phoebe with them to Nakuru where they settled. Phoebe had never been in school and had nothing to do. She required the sister to let her go to school. Her sister had no way to help her so she just told her to look for a school. After having been refused in every school in the Nakuru area because of her advanced age, she finally came to the Fiwagoh Mission Orphanage where she begged to be admitted in the school. The director had mercy on her and asked whether she would be able to pay. She said that her brother who was in school in Uganda got UN support and would pay for her. She was admitted on this basis and began schooling with the youngest children at Fiwagoh. Later her brother went back to Sudan. Here he found no job and could no longer pay for his sister as he was called to be a soldier. Phoebe has no way to continue her school except to get a full sponsorship.
